Boca Raton, FL (TBD) --- Multi-Media Productions (USA), Inc. announces that Electric Guard Dog Security Systems will be featured on 21st Century Business.

Since its inception in 1973, Electric Guard Dog has evolved into a multi-faceted security business, best known for the patented Electric Guard Dog perimeter security, developed by company founder Bill Mullis.

Electric Guard Dog is a second fence installed just inside any structurally sound perimeter fence. The solar power design of the security system enables Electric Guard Dog to adapt to any site's perimeter security needs including rooftop and remote applications, plus, the system stays armed even in the event of a power failure.

The past few years has seen an explosive growth for businesses need for effective security, especially the distribution and manufacturing sectors. To quickly and efficiently meet this ever increasing security need, Electric Guard Dog brought in Jack DeMao as its CEO.

"Bill was way ahead of everyone in the security business when he created Electric Guard Dog," DeMao said. "Not only did he create an effective deterrent that is simple in design and operation, but he also made it 'green,' it's solar powered. He created a security solution that is effective, efficient and economical."

Since DeMao's arrival, Electric Guard Dog has added to their customer service ranks and implemented system changes for a faster, improved customer service experience. There are now 29 highly trained field technicians strategically placed across the U.S. Also, Electric Guard Dog added installation teams, reducing the turn around time from contract to install.

Electric Guard Dog, the “security system with teeth”, is proud to be a security partner with more than 2,300 commercial and industrial companies across the nation, helping them protect their businesses, and provide a safer environment for their employees.
